

How much can you save with automed's livestock medication delivery system?

The automed system doesn't just help producers meet compliance, work faster, and add value to livestock products - it also helps producers to reduce overdosing and the costs associated. Accurate dosing translates to efficient dosing, which improves the bottom line. We wanted to know exactly how much automed would save producers, so we ran a study on a commercial feedlot in the U.S.

In a single day, 524 animals were treated with Ivermectin using a scale connected with the automed system.

The results

When using the automed system, producer saved up to 1 liter

of medication compared to manual methods

this resulted in 21%

in saved medication
